Reports.

The American steamer Sunwonada reports having left Shanghai on the 17th March, at daylight. Passed in the river steamer Serthai, bound in; and steamer Atlas and British ship John L. Dimmock, bound out. Experienced gentle North East breeze and fine weather throughout the passage.

The British barque Dayspring, from Sydney January 17th, reports having had N.E. gales for four days immediately on leaving Sydney, to the north part of New Caledonia had East by winds, and from thence to the line squally, and cloudy weather, with much rain. Crossed the Equator on the 30th January at about 8 on. 167 East. Passed the Ladrone Islands on the 2nd of March, through the Bashee Channel on the 13th March, and moderate monsoon to arrival. The Dayspring had good N.E. trades, but no S.S. trade wind at all.

The British ship John Norman, from New York on the 20th October, reports having experienced severe gales of winds from the S.E. and S.W. on the 2nd November, which lasted for two days. Passed the line in the Atlantic on the 9th December in 27 W. long., after which had moderate weather to the Cape, excepting one gale, in which a good many sails were lost. Crossed the meridian of the Cape of the 7th January, in 38 S. lat. after which, which had strong N.E. gales for several days. Passed Sunday Island on the 14th February, came through Ombay Passage on the following day, and from thence through Bouro and Gilolo passages. On the 19th February, when he calmed off the Catherine Islands, the vessel was found to be drifting in shore; the small anchor was then let go with 50 fathoms of cable, Catherine Islands at the time bearing E. by N., one mile distant; at 8 A.M., a light breeze came from the N.N., and the vessel was kept away to go to the westward of the island. About 10 A.M. same day passed over a rock close under the ship's bottom, which gave nine fathoms by the lead when thrown, immediately the rock was seen; after this steered North and found much deeper water. This rock is not laid down in the charts, Catherine Island is 8.35 by E., and Sharpes Island N.E. The John Norman spoke the following vessels, February 12th, lat. 14 S., lon. 115 E. Golden Spur, London to this port, 84 days out. On the 24th February, British ship Lord Nelson, London to Shanghai, 60 days out; same day saw the Hamburg barque Catharina, Hamburg to Hongkong, 117 days out. February 27th, barque Charmian, Sunderland to Hongkong, 108 days out.

HONGKONG, MARCH 20TH, 1868.

THERE are still some interesting returns in the Census tables which we have not yet noticed. One table shows the various trades followed by the Chinese in Hongkong, and the number of persons or establishments engaged in each. The large mercantile establishments of the wealthy Chinese are referred to, we presume, under the item "Hongs," of which there are 79. There are 241 chandlers in Victoria, and 105 more in the villages, that trade being followed by a greater number of persons than any other. The cooks-house keepers come next in order, but can hardly be considered in the light of persons who follow a trade, any more than those who occupy "family houses," of which there are 1,244 in Victoria, and 531 in the villages. After the chandlers, the most popular business is that of the money changer, a circumstance which illustrates that inborn instinct for commercial pursuits so characteristic of the Chinese. There are 140 money-changers in Victoria, a number which must, one would say, be far in excess of the number actually required to transact the business doing. The inference is that the trade yields large profits per cent. of the capital involved, so that each person engaged in it can afford to live on the profits of a smaller share of the work to be done than he could transact if there were less competition. Tailors are a numerous class. There are 128 of them; and next come the carpentry, of whom there are 128. Foreign goods dealers number 108, and the other trades are less extensively followed. One rather curious fact visible in this table is, that there are 61 post-offices in the town. Coriosity a man who has time and inclination to make himself master of the native life, even of Hongkong alone, might introduce most of us to a great many facts with which we are unacquainted. What, for instance, is the organisation of these post-offices? Whence do they receive and whither do they dispatch their mails? Do they dispatch them regularly by foreign conveyance, or by native junks alone? Do they receive payment in money or stamps, and how much? The Chinese post-offices of Hongkong form a promising field for the investigations of an explorer.

The popularity of the razor is shown by the fact that there are 90 barbers in the town and 26 in the villages, but other operations of the toilet do not seem so much in favour, as two hatting-house keepers supply the 100,000 and odd Chinese of the colony with all the public facilities for washing which they require. Doctors and druggists are plentiful; 96 in Victoria alone; 18 more practising in the villages. Europeans ought to be able to have their linen properly "got up" by some, at all events, of the 51 washermen belonging to Victoria. The extent to which their clientèle is composed of the foreign element is shown by the fact that outside the limits of the city there is only one man following the trade. There are 31 pawnbrokers, rendering valuable assistance, no doubt, in promoting the business of the 41 prepared opium sellers. The arts, on the whole, are pretty well supported. There are 15 portrait and landscape painters. Certainly unintiated persons hearing the usually strong impression to the effect that the Chinese are a highly artistic race, would not have expected to see many artistic establishments. Tinmen are almost as numerous as the tea-dealers, of whom there are 17 only. It is to be presumed however, that the chandlers are successful in indicating most of the humbler Chinese to "try our mixtures," as the advertising grocers at home say. European impressions of China and its cookery would not be borne out by the discovery that there is only one birds-nest seller, and 16 sheep dealers. The shoemaking business has apparently been divided into two branches, and the "shoemakers for Europeans" evidently drive a better trade than their more patriotic brethren, who devote themselves to shoeing their countrymen. There are 85 of the first kind to 19 of the second.

From another table it may be perceived that there are 2,485 boat women engaged in Victoria, and 7,082 boatmen, assisted by 2,094 boys and 1,879 girls. There are 372 cargo boats, 336 "Hakow and pullaway" boats, and 701 sampans, besides other native craft in smaller quantities. The sampans employ the largest proportion of women, and there are nearly as many women as men engaged with them, 1,278 men and 1,125 women. Stanley is apparently the greatest fishing station on the island. At Victoria there are 35 fishing boats, at Aberdeen 88, at Sowkewan 63, and at Stanley 212, employing 916 men, 511 women, and about 800 children. Sowkewan on the other hand is the only one of eleven stations reported as possessing trading boats. There are 11 of these at the place, employing 54 men, 5 women, and 9 boys, besides whom the commercial navy of Sowkewan rejoices in the possession of 1 girl. In spite of its inferiority to Stanley as a fishing station, Sowkewan employs so many more sampans, that it boasts of the largest boat population of any town in the island, next to Victoria. There are 3,489 persons of both sexes and ages on board the boats at that place, 2,678 at Stanley, and 2,176 at Aberdeen. These facts are rather curious, as certainly we should have supposed from the general appearance of the three places that Aberdeen was by far the most populous of any.

An educational table shows that Hongkong possesses 61 schools, 28 being "general Chinese," and 7 "private Chinese" schools—whatever the difference may be—11 are Government schools, 5 Roman Catholic; 2 belong to the London Mission, and the rest are isolated establishments which cannot be classified. The Government schools receive by far the largest number of native pupils, 646 boys and 48 girls, with only 8 boys belonging to the class of foreign scholars. The Roman Catholic schools, on the other hand, have a much larger proportion of foreign pupils, 96 boys and 80 girls, to 98 Chinese boys and 202 Chinese girls. St. Paul's College has apparently plucked up a little. It devotes itself exclusively to the male sex, and boasts of 9 foreign and 17 Chinese boys. The Mosque-garden school considers to exist on the smallest number of scholars mentioned in the list, 20 in all, including native and foreign pupils. The Chinese schools are of course exclusively for boys, and receive $21.

A few tables of the conclusions of the series show the working of the Registration Ordinance; 7,005 certificates of male servants, and 494 for female servants were issued during the year 1867, together with 9 duplicates, the total amount of the fees received being $1,891. There were 4,045 householders certificates (originals), and 175 removals, yielding $12,178. The prosecutions under the ordinance were 120 in number, 96 being against householders, and 33 against servants, a larger number than we should have anticipated by a great many, and certainly a larger number than was necessary, as 27 summons were dismissed.

In the resolution referring to the duty on bank notes, brought forward at the Chamber of Commerce meeting by Mr. Kresser, the amount ratio be proposed was a half per mil, and not half per cent, as reported.

The Amateur Theatricals.

Believed by an entertainment which would not, naturally, have been expected in Hongkong,—a Japanese Theatrical Society of Hongkong,—a twice-enacted performance of last evening passed off in a brilliantly successful manner, more so than any other which has been given this year. Except for a few failures of memory, there was nothing to mar the effect of the two pieces given, and even these do not have very serious effect in anything so outré as the burlesque of "Bluebeard," which was the chief attraction of the night. The introductory farce having been well carried off by the acting of Captain Staples and Mr. Nelson, the burlesque was introduced in a highly-promising manner by the appearance of the favorite "Miss Lucy Verjuice," a costume of Indian, which was one of the most successful in which we have yet seen that talented young artist, although surpassed by the second in which he appeared, distinctly the best thing of the kind which has been put upon the stage by the amateurs. Captain Staples as Bluebeard, had scarcely scope for his peculiar vein of humour, but it is needless to say that he performed the part in a thoroughly competent manner. The dress rehearsal of the evening, however, was the ballet. We are ready to believe that though the notion of that exhibition did not appear promising at first, the effect was immediately overcome. The house, crowded, of course, as usual on these occasions, was taken by storm. As the dancing progressed, the voice of laughter and the applause were overwhelming. At the conclusion of the scene there were shouts for an encore, that could not be disregarded. The curtain had to go up again, and a part of the ballet had to be repeated.

A notice of last nights proceedings would be very incomplete without a few words in acknowledgement of the services rendered by the gentlemen who contributed the musical part of the entertainment. The new Artillery band conducted by Dr. Smith, played in the beginning of the evening, doing some French selections after the farce extremely well, and the burlesque was accompanied by a small string orchestra, led most ably by Mr. Sangster at the piano.

Suicide of a Prisoner in Victoria Gaol.

Yesterday morning about seven o'clock, the occurrence happening to open the cell of a man named Chung-hoy-chee, who was committed for trial on a charge of piracy and murder in April 1866, it was discovered hanging by his neck, quite dead. The suicide had torn his blanket into strips, and having made one end fast to the bars of his cell, he stood on a pan he had in the room, and fastening the other end of the rope round his neck, he kicked away the pan, and was in that position when discovered. The evidence against him was very strong and there is little doubt that he would have suffered the extreme penalty of the law had he been placed at the bar of the Supreme Court.

An inquest was held on the body during the afternoon, before Dr. Murray, the coroner, and the following jury:—Messrs. H. Redmann, G. Denis, H. Dreaker, and R. Dana. This last gentleman did not attend as he was fined ten $50, but nominated nothing into court about ten minutes after, his name was called, the coroner remitted the fine. Dr. Murray said he had been called to see a man who had assigned himself in Victoria gaol, he saw the man, who died by hanging; in his opinion; the man effected his design by tearing his blanket into strips.

Mr. Douglas, superintendent of the gaol, said the deceased was locked up after supper on Wednesday evening, and was not seen until found hanging by a Sowkewan prisoner, where only 6 o'clock. He found and let the prisoners out of their cells, this man went and reported the suicide to Johnson, one of the turnkeys, who went in and cut the man down and took him to the Hospital, but the deceased was quite dead when brought into Hospital. Johnson, the turnkey, gave evidence to show how he found the man hanging, and how he took him to the Hospital.

The Jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased was found hanging, at the same time suggesting that some plan should be adopted for leaving no pans or buckets in the prisoners cells at night, they thought it might be possible to make a hole in the door of the cell for the prisoners' accommodation; and that the door with all articles by which a prisoner might be enabled to take his own life.

Police Intelligence, 19th March.

BEFORE E. W. GOODLAKE Esq.

EXTENSIVE DISCOVERY OF STOLEN GOODS.

Lee-a-fook, 22, firewood dealer, Saiwo-hane, was charged with being in possession of a quantity of saltpetre, brimstone, &c., alleged to have been stolen.

Sergeant Parker arrested the prisoner, on a warrant, in which he alleged that the property, which he knew to be in the man's house, was undoubtedly part of the proceeds of a robbery committed by the acting of Captain Staples and Mr. Nelson, the burlesque was introduced in a highly-promising manner by the appearance of the favorite "Miss Lucy Verjuice," a costume of Indian, which was one of the most successful in which we have yet seen that talented young artist, although surpassed by the second in which he appeared, distinctly the best thing of the kind which has been put upon the stage by the amateurs. Captain Staples as Bluebeard, had scarcely scope for his peculiar vein of humour, but it is needless to say that he performed the part in a thoroughly competent manner. The dress rehearsal of the evening, however, was the ballet. We are ready to believe that though the notion of that exhibition did not appear promising at first, the effect was immediately overcome. The house, crowded, of course, as usual on these occasions, was taken by storm. As the dancing progressed, the voice of laughter and the applause were overwhelming. At the conclusion of the scene there were shouts for an encore, that could not be disregarded. The curtain had to go up again, and a part of the ballet had to be repeated.

The two unfortunate little creatures were brought into court, and being enveloped in mow grey jackets from the goal look extremely forlorn. They were examined one after another by His Worship, who endeavoured to elicit as much as possible from them, but unfortunately being the mother and children from the goal, they managed to exchange a few words in consequence of which they both appeared to be intimidated.

A-kow said she was not eleven, she had plenty to eat, &c. Although the child exhibited brains for her years, she seemed to be reluctant to give evidence against her mother. Tong-yow, however, was more communicative, she told how her mother had been in the position in which she was found, she said her mother often beat her, but yet never plenty of food.

Mr. Gaskell said he considered that a beating the children was necessary to prevent them thieving, and he produced a witness, who stated she knew the children stealing coal belonging to the defendant.

His Worship said he must commit the defendants for trial at the Supreme Court, but he would accept bail, two securities of $500 each.

Mr. Gaskell said he thought the bail was more excessive; how could his Worship expect the woman to find bail? A woman in her condition could hardly find two securities for $100 each, his Worship might just as well have said $1,000.

Mr. May said he thought the woman could find bail for half the amount if she intended to appear at the Supreme Court.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

BEFORE CHIEF JUSTICE SMALE.

The March sessions were continued yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The following jury were called and sworn:—H. W. Leslie, H. Gasterin, J. E. King, W. Thomson, Bremsohn, F. De Gouveur, C. P. Chater, and E. Powys.

ROBBERY.

Tin goolloo, twenty-four of whom had the same clan name, Tsui Wong, of a farm, flavour, Europe; fruits and flowers of a form, flavour, and beauty understood of by the rams of untravelled Europeans, and it is clear that this island has pretensions to be described by one who combines the qualities of an artist and a poet. That Mr. Boyle is neither one nor the other detracts much from the effect of his work. Still, though his book has no particular animation, and is deformed by that most detestable of faults, an affectation of facetiousness in season and out of season, his faculty of observation has enabled him to see many things which are worth knowing. If, with this faculty, he had combined those of vivid imagination and poetical description, his record would have been more likely to live than it now is.

"You can have no idea how striking and varied a feature of life in Port Louis is its population. You have natives from every part of the vast continent of India, all differing not less in features than in form. Wooly and athletic men, imperial looking, by far the rarest of the race, and miserable, insignificant women. They are all of them and shades. In the course of half an hour's walk, you stumble on Parsees, Arabs, Gingalese, Chinamen, Lascars, Malays, Mozambiques, and Malgaches (natives of Madagascar). Add to these the negro, the mulatto, the French Créole, the English Creole; throw in all other Europeans; Frenchmen, Germans, Italians, Spaniards, and Portuguese, and you will have the materials for a population of the most heterogeneous character. Then superadd to this the costumes of the different races, and you will have a kaleidoscope of colour, a confusion of tongues and dress, which, for variety, is unsurpassed in any city of the world. Nor is the variety confined to the human species. Every animal that is known to be peculiar to the tropics, and many that are not, are to be found in the menageries of the inhabitants. Ultimately, the accession of Lord Grey to the Colonial-office dismayed the Exeter Hall party, if not of its jealousy. This was the case for the prosecution. The three, men who lived at the country deposed to the above facts, and still bore the marks of the wounds they had received. Dr. Osborne deposed to two men being admitted to the Civil Hospital on the 18th of February, and as to the nature of their wounds. When it was found that only two of the prisoners could be identified as having taken part in the robbery, the Attorney-General intimated the information by adding a second count, charging them with receiving stolen goods.

Mr. Gaskell said the first prisoner said he was 60 years old. He came to the colony on the 9th of February, that he had a son in America, and on his account he drew from a compradore in Messrs. Russell and Co.'s, an annuity of four dollars a month. The book found in his possession when arrested was the compradore's pass book for three persons.

Number six said he was the son of the first, and came down to this colony to accompany his father. Number two was a steel-cutter, was employed, and merely staying at the shed. Number three was a marker in the employ of the Rifle Association. Number four and five were street coolies, unemployed; number seven was in the employ of the mill system, number eight was the cook to the markers, and number nine and ten were marker at the butts in the employ of the Rifle Association. The first prisoner called the compradore, who substantiated what he had said regarding the payments he was to receive. The third, eighth, ninth, and tenth prisoners called the head marker of the rifle butts, who identified these men as in the employ of the association as under markers.

In charging the jury, His Lordship called attention to the fact of there being no evidence going to show that any of the prisoners except four and five had anything to do with the burglary, but there was no evidence to show that the one assault as they had been identified by the man Yip-a-sing alone, as having taken part in the fight. The Attorney-General had added a second count to the information, that of having in their possession goods known to have been stolen, but was this proved against any of the prisoner except the third? It was in his box that the pawnticket had been found.

The jury retired, and after only a few moments absence returned a verdict of guilty against the fourth and fifth prisoners on the first, Chinese woman, ruined Wing-now. During the progress of the case Mr. Gaskell appeared for the defendants.

Little-kai, who was out collector to Young tai-ho, Messrs. Dent and Co.'s compradore, was the man who was instrumental in drawing the attention of the police authorities to the matter, for he went to Ho Tai's to lodge a complaint against the robbery, praying that the stolen might be put a stop to. He stated in his evidence that he had occasion many times to pass the women's house in Da Aguilar street and on the 14th or 15th of this month, which date he could not exactly recollect, he was passing the house and he saw the defendant beating her child, one of those he was presented up with her hands behind her back to a post, hardly touching the ground with her feet, and the defendant was beating her with a whisk about an inch in diameter, for there was a great crowd round the door at the time.

Lo-poo-wan, a money changer, and Poon-ye-fa, a barber, both were present, when this particular assault committed by defendant took place, they both said they had seen the woman beat her children often.

Dr. Murray was had examined the children in the goal, stated that he had seen two little ones about Ah Kow and Tong-yow, whom he took to be about seven or eight years of age, they both presented marks of recent bruises on the back part of the neck and legs, the skin also on the chest showed white, as from recent scars, there were marks of recent wounds in the head, and one on the girl Ah-yee seemed to have been very severely beaten about the head. The children were both stunted in growth for their age, but not particularly so.

The two unfortunate little creatures were brought into court, and being enveloped in mow grey jackets from the goal look extremely forlorn. They were examined one after another by His Worship, who endeavoured to elicit as much as possible from them, but unfortunately being the mother and children from the goal, they managed to exchange a few words in consequence of which they both appeared to be intimidated.

A-kow said she was not eleven, she had plenty to eat, &c. Although the child exhibited brains for her years, she seemed to be reluctant to give evidence against her mother. Tong-yow, however, was more communicative, she told how her mother had been in the position in which she was found, she said her mother often beat her, but yet never plenty of food.

Mr. Gaskell said he considered that a beating the children was necessary to prevent them thieving, and he produced a witness, who stated she knew the children stealing coal belonging to the defendant.

His Worship said he must commit the defendants for trial at the Supreme Court, but he would accept bail, two securities of $500 each.

Mr. Gaskell said he thought the bail was more excessive; how could his Worship expect the woman to find bail? A woman in her condition could hardly find two securities for $100 each, his Worship might just as well have said $1,000.

Mr. May said he thought the woman could find bail for half the amount if she intended to appear at the Supreme Court.

Education in India.

The Daily Telegraph recalls the saying of the English in India, that when the day came for them to leave the country the only monument of their rule would be broken beer-bottles. If that was ever true of the earlier years of John Company's domination, it is true no longer. We have stamped a broad and indelible mark of our power and, better still, of our beneficence, on the great peninsula. Roads, to which the Appian and the Flaminian ways were paltry by-paths, have been laid over her plains; bridges and reservoirs have been cut and delved, worthy to compare even with the great works of Augustus and Shah Jehan: the iron horse traverses her provinces from end to end; and her agones are annihilated by the telegraph wire, and by the postal system which transmits a letter from Cossein to Attock for three farthings. But the most enduring and perfectly manifest thing which we have performed for India is the education of her children. The great-in-aid method under the presidency of Mr. Howell has set up schools everywhere, departments has set up schools everywhere, and they will now be very reluctant to millions of the land. That in the district of Calcutta a change is already coming must be seen by the following extract from the Hindoo Patriot, a native paper:—"Bombay education." It lately wrote, "has begun to play an important part in marriages. Bridegrooms do openly inquire of the brides intended for them; and beauty is not all the inquiry they make—they inquire of the attention of their brides. But, change of schemes, brides inquire, with all decision consistent with modesty, whether the bridegrooms are M.A.'s or B.A.'s, and do not inquire whether they are Kulins or nukoats." In Bombay, a vigorous movement in the same direction has long existed, confined at first mainly to Parsees—always progressive—and to low-caste girls, but now very much extending. The natives resident in London have recently petitioned Sir Stafford Northcote on the subject of Government grants for female education. Sir John Lawrence—a warm friend to this enterprise—had given their fellow-referees in Bombay the just answer that he would help them in proportion as they tried first to help themselves. This is the golden rule of the Indian Government; and we don't see how Sir Stafford Northcote can break it, even for the sake of a very good cause. Let the Hindoos of the Bombay Presidency, then, make a strong and generous effort on their own part, and "the Siccar" cannot, and will not, refuse the most liberal assistance.

An English artist, Mr. A. Munro, has had on order from the French Government for a bust of the late M. Guizot, for the Institute, and is said to have produced an excellent likeness as well as a fine work of art.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE.

NEWS FROM THE NORTH.

In a N. C. Daily News of the 10th instant, to hand by the Sacramento, we read the following items of intelligence:—

Tientsin

We have received no details from our Tientsin correspondent, by the Nanzing, but hear that it is reported the rebels have retired southwards.

Chefoo.

Our correspondent writes—any good effect of the Mahommedan irruption has already been to stark any amount of goods inland via Chefoo, which would otherwise have gone from Tientsin. By the way, has it ever come out from what source the salary of the Chinese Embassy is to be paid? Is it true that, like everything else except tight-houses, it is to come out of tonnage dues?

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Thursday Evening.

Transactions in Bengal Drug have been more of a speculative nature to-day. The market assumes a quiet tone with a downward tendency. The regular importers, however, have been keeping themselves out of the market: one or two of them have been overselling themselves very largely, and issuing bargain chop scrips for small considerations. Should clearances go on at the present rate, as from all appearances they likely to be, and the Sentiz keep out for a few days longer, prices may be forced up for a time only. New Patna has been changed hands at $295 to $297½, and $8571 on time. Third sales at $865 with more sellers than buyers. New Benares at $885, to $930. Old Benares none left. Old Patna at $899 to $902½. There is no change to report in Malwa, small holders are pretty nearly cleared out at $680 to $685. It is not expected to rule much under the above rates on arrival of fresh supply by the mail steamer; sales, however, advices are very discouraging from the North. It is likely to prove a safe investment to operate upon at the cheap market prices that still then rule.

There is no improvement and little change to report in the markets for general merchandize to-day, and beyond a few trifling sales reported below there has been little else doing. The Chinese are showing no inclination to purchase at present, being held back no doubt by the firmness of the holders of manufactured goods, and the advance that has already taken place in the market. The low rate at which they have already been enabled to purchase a very considerable supply has strengthened the "bearing" proposition of the native dealers, and they will now be very reluctant to buy at advancing rates. This, however, is only temporary, and with the pressure for goods from the interior that no doubt exists, they will soon be obliged to come on the market and fill their orders. Raw Cotton is for the moment quiet, but the market continues very firm. There is nothing doing in Exchange. The Commissariat tenders will be opened to-morrow, but at present rates asked no one seems inclined to purchase. Gold is rather easier, and is demanded at $24.20 to $24.25. There has been little or nothing doing in Shares.
